RAY AND DAVID E WEATHER EARLY ONSLAUGHT

Ray Moran, substituting for Len Hattersley, and David Erskine (Handicap 11) were shocked early in their quarter final against Ole Hostrup, substituting for Maureen Cosby, and Robert Campbell (Handicap 18) as Ole and Robert raced to a lead of 16-3 after only 5 ends.

Ole’s and Robert’s early gallop could not be sustained as Ray and David raced in 9 consecutive ends to lead 20-16 after end 14. David’s lip dropped as Ole and Robert rolled a 5 to regain the lead. As before, this surge was short lived and Ray and David raced away to win 25-22.

They will have to be at their best in their game in the semi-final as they will concede 9 points to the formidable duo of Carole Boardman and Stuart Smith.

Statistics:

Team	R Moran (Sub)- D Erskine (Hcp 11)	O Hostrup (Sub)- R Campbell (Hcp 18)

MIXED TRIPLES FIRST ROUND WRAP

Two interesting match-ups heralded in the 1st round of the Mixed Pairs for the 2021 season.

Father and daughter pairing, John Bowring and Sarah Hobson, had 8 points to spare at the end of proceedings defeating a gallant Judy Carroll and Vic Solway 23-15. John and Sarah only won 2 extra ends over Judy and Vic, however, it was their consistency in scoring multiple shots on the ends that they won counting in the end.

Sarah noted that “Judy got ... a 4 and that got them right back in the game and we thought we would lose it but we battled ahead ... and we were victors.”

Judy self-effacingly exclaimed that “Vic was amazing, he was very supportive and did not yell at me once!”

On the other hand, in contrast, Vic’s summation was “Well! The Sun God failed but he will come back and win a final someday!!!”

John and Sarah now go on to meet Kay and Kevin Mulhall in the 2nd quarter final.

Statistics:

Team	J Bowring – S Hobson	J Carroll – V Solway
Points	23	15
Ends	11	9
1 point end	3	6
2 point end	5	1
3 point end	2	1
4 point end	1	1

The second game also involved close family ties. Last year’s runners-up, Marilyn and Graham Screen, decided to go for gold individually with Marilyn teaming up with Brian Paxton and Graham teaming up with Lena Manu on her return after a period away from competition.

We are not sure what Graham had for dinner this night as he and Lena showed no mercy on his beloved wife Marilyn and Brian, retiring their bowls after 19 ends with a dominating 24-7 victory.

Brian in his appraisal of the game, with a little poetic licence and mixed metaphors, stated, “... score indicated both (Lena and Graham) played exceptional. Graham followed up with every @!?! trick in the book. No sour grapes.” He further stated (not withstanding their runners-up position last year) in all the year’s teaming up with Marilyn, Graham “never ever produced the goods” on the green.

Lena and Graham will play Merdith Collum and David Madson in the 3rd quarter final.

Statistics:

Team	L Manu – G Screen	B Paxton – M Screen
Points	24	7
Ends	14	5
1 point end	7	3
2 point end	4	2
3 point end	3	-

CONSISTENCY SINGLES FIRST ROUND ROLLS

Intemperate weather conditions last week saw only two games played in the opening round of the Consistency Singles for 2021.

On Wednesday last year’s runner-up Kevin Mulhall led by 2 shots (46-44) after 9 ends of a 27 -end contest against Ron Aitken. After 18 ends he increased his lead by 14 shots to then gradually pull away for a handsome win 151-129.

Statistics:

Player	Points scored	Deduct Handicap	Game Points	Ends won	Ends lost	Ends drawn
Kevin Mulhall	151	0	151	13	9	6
Ron Aitken	129	0	129	9	13	6

Sunday’s game commenced in miserable conditions and ended in atrocious conditions resulting in Scott Bonthrone forfeiting to Sarah Hobson after 20 ends. At the time Sarah was bowling above her handicap leading 104-66 after Scott conceded her 30 points on handicap.

Statistics:

Player	Points scored	Deduct Handicap	Game Points	Ends won	Ends lost	Ends drawn
Sarah Hobson	104	0	104	8	9	3
Scott Bonthrone	96	30	66	9	8	3

Modern birthday parties are said to get their roots from the 18th-century German celebration “Kinderfeste.” On the morning of a child’s birthday, he or she would receive a cake with lighted candles that added up to the kid’s age, plus one. This extra candle was called the “light of life,” representing the hope of another full year lived.

Ku-ring-gai Residents fight to stop Council land grab

Mar 01 2022

Jenny Nguyen

KU-RING-GAI Council's plans to rezone the former Gordon and East Roseville Bowling Club sites from public recreational use to medium density development has been met with scrutiny by the local community.

This comes after the Gordon and East Roseville Bowling Club sites closed in 2017, with the Council starting the process to rezone the two sites the following year.

The recent Planning Proposal which was made available for public viewing from September to October 2021 for public comment was seeking to rezone the site for density development and to reclassify the former Gordon Bowling Club site from 'community land' to 'operational land'.

This reclassification from community to operational land means that the land may not be open to the general public. This reclassification also permits Council to sell, exchange or grant an interest to another party in accordance with the provisions of the Local Government Act.

In light of this, local residents of Gordon started a petition to stop the proposed plans to the Gordon site, with residents urging the Council to preserve the site as green space or community land, for perhaps development into a park or community garden.

In response to their current plans for the site, a Ku-ring-gai Council Spokesperson said that plans for the site are still in development.

"The Gordon Bowling Club site is still in the process of reclassification from community to operational land and a public hearing will be held at the end of February," they said.

As for the former East Roseville Bowling Club site, the Council proposed to change the zoning of the site from public recreation to low density residential. With the Roseville Chase Community group concerned that once the zoning is changed, it would be an easy task for Council to change the site into medium density development.

"Rather than depriving us of much-needed open space, Council should seize this opportunity to properly consult the community and recycle and revitalise this generally flat and easily accessible asset for multifunctional, multigenerational recreational facilities," said Simrita Virk, a representative of the local residents' action group.

The historic East Roseville Bowling Club has been in Ku-ring-gai Council's care since the club vacated in 2017, and local residents have continued to use the reserve as best as they can, despite weeds infesting the three former bowling greens and surrounding gardens.

The sturdy, brick clubhouse is suffering as a victim of demolition by neglect - windows and glass doors have been smashed, and copper piping and roof tiles removed.

Local action group member Holly Cope said Ku-ring-gai Council has largely based its rezoning on the argument that the old bowling club site was “vacant and no longer required for the purposes it was acquired”.

“This is a spurious argument,” Ms Cope said. “Since 1953, Council has signed off on four Declarations of Trust to protect the site as public reserve ‘henceforth’ – and not just as a bowling club. There is no other nearby accessible public reserve for activities like bike riding or ballgames, and certainly nothing for people with mobility issues,” Ms Cope said.

The proposal states Council is committed to providing additional open space in Ku-ring-gai and will ‘offset or compensate for the loss of this site’.

“But there is no better site,” Ms Cope said. “In fact, there is no other site available in the Roseville Chase area to meet the local community’s recreational needs.”

As for the site’s future, a report on the public’s submissions to the planning proposal will be considered by Councillors at a Council meeting.

Since this story was finalised by our Journalist, Ku-ring-gai Council has discussed this item at the 15 February 2022 Council Meeting. and voted to proceed with the sale of the Roseville site.

AUSSIE DESTINATIONS – Nundle, NSW

Quiet historic gold mining town now a popular "tree change" destination.

Nundle is one of those well-kept secrets. Starting life as a gold mining town surrounded by some particularly beautiful scenery and positioned between the Peel River and the slopes of the Great Dividing Range, it lies in the heart of rich sheep, cattle and wheat farmlands. In many ways it is the quintessential "tree change" town with classy restaurants, good accommodation and a rich diversity of craftspeople.

Location

Nundle is located 392 km north of Sydney via the New England Highway. It is located 35 km east of the highway and 59 km south-east of Tamworth.

Origin of Name

Nundle is probably a corruption of a Kamilaroi Aboriginal word meaning "mouth". It was probably referring to the mouth of Nundle River as it flows into the Peel.

The Peel Inn

The Peel Inn dates from the 1860s. It was built during the goldrush and is the last of the 16 pubs that once existed in the town. It was built by William McIlveen. In the late 1870s John Schofield won it, so the story goes, in a card game. Schofield's descendants are still the owners.

Courthouse Museum

The local Court House, now a museum, is a two-storey red-brick building with rendered round-headed window arches, a hipped roof and shady veranda. It was built in 1880 by local builder, George Davidson

Old Bank Building

It is probably fair to say that modern, fashionable Nundle starts with this building, constructed in 1938 as a Bank of New South Wales, later becoming a National Bank and then, in 1996, becoming the very chic Jenkins Street Guest House. It was restored by Sydney developers, Peter and Judy Howarth, who established excellent accommodation and impressive cooking - out of the old bank vault which was turned into the kitchen.

All Saints Anglican Church

The first Church of England service held in the area was conducted from the veranda of John Gibbon's Golden Nugget Hotel at Hanging Rock by the Bishop of Newcastle. This building was constructed in 1907.

Chinese Memorial Plaque

"The small Chinese Garden with a memorial plaque acknowledges the many Chinese who died on the goldfields during the 1800's and who were buried in unmarked graves. From the 1850's to the 1880's thousands of people came to what was then called the Peel River Diggings which incorporated Nundle, Happy Valley, Hanging Rock, and Bowling Alley Point. Among the rush of people were numerous Chinese; most looking for gold, plus a few came to set up stores and gardens to supply the diggers. Illness or accidents took the lives of many searching the hills, and the Bowling Alley Point and Nundle Cemeteries became their final resting-places while the majority left when gold petered out or new fields beckoned. Some stayed on and became a permanent part of Nundle and district history."

Views of Hanging Rock

When gold was first discovered at Hanging Rock in 1851 the area was known as the Hanging Rock Diggings. As gold was found in Oakenville Creek and the Peel River, the area became known as the Peel River Diggings.

Mount Misery Gold Mine Cafe

The local builder, George Davidson, constructed the stone portion of the Mount Misery mine buildings in the 1860s. Currently the Mount Misery Mine is a replica of an 1850s gold mine which is accessible to visitors.

Nundle Woollen Mill

This is a rarity: a woollen mill which uses machinery that is more than 100 years old to make wool in a traditional way. It is possible to watch as a bale of wool is turned into yarn. The mill attracts over 30,000 visitors a year.

Nundle Riverside Walkway

For those wanting to relax and enjoy a stroll there is a pleasant sealed one kilometre walkway beside the Peel River which starts at Inness Street and continues along the river where bird watching and picnics are possible.

Chaffey Dam

Located 18 km north of Nundle on the Tamworth-Nundle Road is the Chaffey Dam which holds 60 million litres of water and covers 542 ha. The embankment is 54 m high and 430 m long.

Dead Horse Mine

Located on Happy Valley Road which runs off Oakenville Road, 5 km east of Nundle, is the Two-Mile Walk where the visitor can see remnants of the goldrush era with old shafts, diggings, mullock heaps and equipment and other remnants of a goldmining settlement. This road is only accessible to walkers and 4WD vehicles.

Hanging Rock

Hanging Rock is located 8 km from town. The road winds its way steeply, past old mullock heaps, to the top of the mountain range (1100 m above sea-level) where the massive treeless rock face of Hanging Rock looms overhead. The main road passes through the village of Hanging Rock.

Sheba Dams Reserve

Beyond Hanging Rock village are the two dams (with a surface area of 3.6 ha) which were erected by hand over a three-week period in 1888 to serve the sluicing needs of the miners. The operation was carried out by the Mount Sheba Company which leased the water rights for the area the previous year.

Go For Gold Chinese Easter Festival

Annually Nundle celebrates the Chinese contribution to its goldmining history with the Nundle Go For Gold Chinese Festival where, for two days, there is traditional dance, music and food, with bands performing, market stalls selling mostly Chinese food and gold panning demonstrations.

History

- In 1818 the explorer Surveyor John Oxley travelled through the area and named the Peel River.
- In 1832 the Australian Agricultural Company was granted 600,000 acres in the area. Nundle is located on what was the eastern boundary of the Goonoo Goonoo station.
- By 1842 the name Nundul was appearing on maps of the area.
- In 1847 the AAC was issued the deeds for the land and, at the time, it considered selling it.
- Gold was discovered at Swamp Creek and Hanging Rock in 1851. The AAC capitalised on this by forming the Peel River Land and Mineral Company.
- In 1852 the Church of England held services for miners from the veranda of the Golden Nugget Hotel at Hanging Rock.
- The Peel Inn was opened in 1861. It was to become one of 16 pubs in the district.
- By 1865 the population in the district was around 500 with some 50 businesses in operation in Nundle.
- A one room public school opened in the town in 1872.
- In 1880 a new Court House was built by local builder, George Davidson.
- Nundle was officially declared a town in 1885. That same year the local Roman Catholic Church was consecrated.
- In 1892 the local School of Arts opened.
- The present post office was opened in 1903.
- In 1907 All Saints Anglican Church was consecrated.
- The Council Offices were built and opened in 1913.
- In 1930 the Nundle Memorial Hall was opened. It honoured locals who had fought in World War I.
- On 2 September, 1948 a Lutana aircraft crashed into Square Peak killing all 13 crew and passengers.

"An indescribably funny, altogether remarkable movie from the creators of 'Being John Malkovich.'"
Peter Travers, ROLLING STONE

Nicolas Cage
Meryl Streep
Chris Cooper

Nicolas Cage is Charlie Kaufman, a confused L.A. screenwriter overwhelmed by feelings of inadequacy, sexual frustration, self-loathing, and by the screenwriting ambitions of his freeloading twin brother Donald (Nicolas Cage). While struggling to adapt "The Orchid Thief," by Susan Orlean (Meryl Streep), Kaufman's life spins from pathetic to bizarre. The lives of Kaufman, Orlean's book, become strangely intertwined as each one's search for passion collides with the others.

Charlie Kaufman: Why didn't I go in? I'm such a chicken. I'm such an idiot. I should have kissed her. I've blown it. I should just go and knock on her door and just kiss her. It would be romantic. It would be something we could someday tell our kids. I'm gonna do that right now.

Directed by Spike Jonze * Starring: Nicolas Cage as Charlie Kaufman and Donald Kaufman, Meryl Streep as Susan Orlean and Chris Cooper as John Laroche.

JOKE OF THE WEEK: Bushie Interview Tact

Darkie and Red went to Brisbane to get jobs.

They had been friends since they were kids, so they decided to apply at the same firm. They had finished filling out the applications and were waiting to see the owner.

Darkie was called in first. The owner was a stout man, with a weathered face and a scar above his right eye. He also had the distinguishing feature of having no ears, just two tiny holes in the sides of his head.

The man ordered Darkie to sit down. He leaned across the desk and moved his cigar to the corner of his mouth. He growled at Darkie "This is a tough business. You have to be on your toes, keen, observant. Look around the room and tell me what you notice!"

Darkie looked at the polished glass, chrome furniture, and large bar. He looked at the owner and said "You ain't got no ears!" The owner jumped out of his chair, grabbed Darkie by the neck and threw him out of his office.

Red saw Joe come flying out the door and went over to help his friend up. "What happened?" Darkie told him, "Whatever you do - don't talk about his ears!"

Just then, the intercom buzzed and the secretary told Red he could go in. Once again the owner ordered Red to sit down. He leaned across the desk and moved his cigar to the corner of his mouth. He growled at Red "This is a tough business. You have to be on your toes, keen, observant. Look around the room and tell me what you notice!"

Red looked at the polished glass, chrome furniture, and large bar. He looked at the owner and said "You wear contacts!" The owner stood up in amazement. "That's awesome perception! How could you tell that from way over there?"

"It's obvious," said Red. "You can't wear glasses because you ain't got no ears!"
